College of Education and Psychology

Vision

The College of Education and Psychology is nationally recognized and respected for its academic programs and opportunities. It is a center of academic excellence, scholarly inquiry, and public service. The College prepares leaders to meet the critical challenges of the 21st Century, to make significant contributions to local and global communities, and to work toward individual and cultural equity.

Mission

The mission of the College of Education and Psychology is to provide a positive environment that fosters the acquisition of knowledge and skills. The mission is individually and collectively realized through a community of scholars that contributes to knowledge through scholarly inquiry; organizes knowledge for application, understanding and communication; and provides leadership and service. Additionally, the College is committed to affirming and promoting global perspectives, cultural diversity, and respect for individual differences as a means of enhancing learning, service, and scholarship.

Core Purpose

To prepare competent, caring, and qualified professionals in the fields of education, psychology and counseling and to advance the knowledge base in our respective disciplines.

Unique Value Proposition

The College of Education and Psychology maximizes human potential by inspiring personal and professional growth.
College of Education and Psychology
Guiding Principles for Governance

The goal for governance in the College of Education and Psychology is to provide a collegial environment in which to pursue the mission of the university, college and departments.

Curriculum

Curriculum (courses, courses of study/degree programs, and certification programs) is the purview of the department. As such, curriculum changes are initiated by departmental faculty, discussed in the department’s faculty meetings, and approved through a process established by the university. The process of developing, reviewing, and approving curricula should be open, inclusive, and collegial. When a curriculum initiative affects other units of the university, there will be consultation with the affected unit(s) prior to review by the college’s curriculum committee. Approved university forms will be used to process all curricular initiatives/changes.

Program Implementation

The implementation/delivery of programs should be done in a collegial manner. Departmental faculty involved in programs should be involved in discussions regarding program scheduling, implementation, and delivery. Significant programmatic changes should not be undertaken without prior discussion and consultation with faculty in the affected programs.

Faculty Hiring Practices

The College of Education and Psychology will adhere to the faculty search and appointment procedures established by the university. With the exception of the need to hire a faculty member in an emergency, it is expected that full-time faculty will be involved in the process of searching for full-time faculty to fill vacant or new positions. Departmental committees of full-time faculty will make hiring recommendations. In situations where a candidate is being considered for an advanced rank or tenure, the candidate’s credentials will be reviewed by a departmental promotion and tenure committee, the administrative head of the unit, the college promotion and tenure committee, and the dean prior to negotiating an advanced rank or tenure with a candidate.

Decision-making in Departmental Meetings

Departmental meetings will be conducted in a manner that makes efficient use of time while fostering collegial participation by participants. A tentative agenda will be prepared and distributed by the chair to facilitate the organization of the meeting. Minutes of college faculty meetings will be recorded and distributed to all faculty in the college.

Accountability

In order to assure that the preceding Guiding Principles are put into effect, the Dean’s Office will conduct surveys of faculty annually to ascertain levels of satisfaction with the governance procedures in academic units and in the college. The survey(s) will be psychometrically sound and jointly developed by faculty and administrators. Results of the annual surveys will be shared with faculty. The goal for effective governance is 80% of full-time faculty will judge the governance procedures of the college to be “acceptable” or better, and the same goal will be established for each of the academic units.

Faculty Governance System

I. Purpose

The purpose of the faculty governance system is to establish policies and procedures through which the faculty in the College of Education and Psychology (CEP) can provide systematic input concerning academic programs, personnel, performance of students, and other policies vital to enhanced student learning, professional development of faculty, and the maintenance of a community of professionals.

II. Governing Authority and Structure

A. Authority

The faculty shall have authority pertaining to undergraduate and graduate curricula, instruction, admission standards and requirements for completion of academic programs, policies for the promotion and tenure for faculty in the college, and other policies that affect performance of and collegiality among faculty in the CEP.

B. Structure

The college consists of two administrative units: the School of Education and the Department of Psychology and Counseling.

III. Faculty Participants

Voting members in the College of Education and Psychology and in its administrative units shall consist of full-time faculty in the university who have at least half-time appointments in the college with the rank of lecturer, senior lecturer, assistant professor, associate professor, professor, visiting assistant professor, visiting associate professor, or visiting professor. Emeritus faculty will have no vote.

IV. Faculty Governing Committees
A. Faculty governance in the College of Education and Psychology shall be vested in four standing committees: The Curriculum and Assessment Committee (CAC), the Faculty Tenure and Promotion Committee (FTPC), the Diversity Committee (DC), and the Technology Committee (TC). Committee members/alternates will be elected by voting faculty within the respective administrative units.

B. The Chairperson of the DC shall be elected by all the faculty of the CEP and shall serve two-year terms. The Dean of the CEP will appoint an election officer. In the event that no candidate receives a majority of the votes cast, a run-off election will be conducted by the election officer.

The Chairpersons of the CAC and TC will be appointed by the dean and shall three-year terms. The Chairperson of the TC must have previously served as a regular member of the committee. Additionally, the CAC chair will serve as the as the CEP’s representative to the university’s Undergraduate Curriculum Committee, and the TC chair will serve as the CEP’s representative on the university’s Technology Committee.

C. The bylaws for each Standing Committee can be found in the Appendices.

D. A majority of the voting members of the CAC, DC, and TC shall be required to pass motions. Chairpersons shall vote only to break ties.

E. The term of office for members of the CAC and TC shall be two years. (One half of the faculty members of each committee shall serve one-year terms during the first year after the approval of this governing document.) Student representatives on the CAC, DC, and TC shall serve on year terms.

F. When a member of the CAC, DC, or TC resigns, the position shall be filled through elections in the administrative units or, in the case of committee chairpersons, in accordance with part B of this section.

G. Administrative units should identify alternates for elected representatives to the CAC, DC, and TC. If an administrative unit’s representative cannot attend a committee meeting, it shall be the responsibility of the administrative unit to assure that the alternate representative attends the meeting.

H. A faculty member may not serve on more than two standing committees in the CEP.

I. Issues concerning jurisdictional responsibilities among standing committees shall be resolved by the chairpersons of involved committees and the Dean of the CEP.

J. All recommended changes in the policies and procedures of standing committees shall be presented and reviewed at a faculty meeting of the CEP.
K. The Dean of the CEP shall review and take appropriate actions on recommendations of standing committees.

L. Each standing committee shall publish an agenda and distribute it to committee members and the Dean. The agenda and minutes of each standing committee shall adhere to the requirements of the 1974 Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (20 U.S.C.A. SS 1232 g –1232 r).

M. Each Standing Committee shall maintain:

i. Up-to-date policies and procedures that detail how the business of the committee is conducted,

ii. Minutes that include:

- the date on which an action is taken,
- reference to any previous action that is overturned or amended by a newly approved action,
- and dates by which any results of an action will be implemented, reported on, evaluated, or resubmitted to the committee for review.

N. A committee chairperson may appoint subcommittees composed of members of a Standing Committee. In consultation with the Dean of the CEP, the chairperson may appoint other individuals to a subcommittee.

V. Standing Committees

A. The Curriculum and Assessment Committee

i. The membership of the Curriculum and Assessment Committee (CAC) shall consist of one faculty representative from the School of Education, one representative from the Department of Psychology and Counseling, the elected member of the university Graduate Council, and two students as ex officio members - one undergraduate and one graduate. The Dean of the CEP shall serve as an ex officio member of the committee.

ii. The purpose of the CAC is to review and act upon proposals submitted by administrative units in all matters having to do with:

a. creation, modification, or deletion of courses within the CEP,
b. creation, modification, or deletion of majors, minors, or degree programs within the CEP,
c. major changes in the catalog,
d. admission, retention and exit requirements for programs, and
e. schedules and strategies for assessing the knowledge, dispositions and skills of candidates.

iii. During the first 30 days of each academic year, a schedule for committee meetings shall be prepared and disseminated to all faculty in the college. Final committee action on any item of business related to ii above shall be taken only after the matter has been introduced, discussed, entered in the minutes, and distributed to members of the faculty of the CEP.

B. Faculty Tenure and Promotion Committee

i. The membership of the FTPC shall consist of two tenured faculty members from each administrative unit in the CEP. Faculty applying for promotion or tenure during an academic year will not be eligible to serve on the committee during that year. Administrative unit representatives shall be selected annually from tenured faculty with academic rank equal to or above those of faculty applying for promotion or tenure each year.

ii. Each year the committee shall elect a chairperson from among the members. The chairperson shall act as a facilitator for review of promotion or tenure applications. The chairperson shall be a voting member of the committee.

iii. The FTPC shall make recommendations to the Dean regarding individual applications for promotion and tenure.

iv. Periodically the Committee shall make recommendations regarding CEP Policies for promotion and tenure.

C. The Diversity Committee

i. The membership of the Diversity Committee shall consist of the chairperson, two representatives each from the Department of Psychology and Counseling and the School of Education, and 2 students, one undergraduate student and one graduate student. The Dean of the CEP shall serve as an ex officio member of the committee. The term of office of each elected faculty member of the Diversity Committee shall be two years.
ii. The Committee shall be responsible for undertaking activities and making policy recommendations to the faculty of the CEP in matters of individual and cultural diversity to develop an environment that affirms and supports diversity of race, ethnicity, sexual orientation, socio-economic status, gender, religion, language and exceptionalities.

iii. Committee recommendations involving substantive policy changes related to ii above shall be adopted only after the matter has been introduced, discussed, entered in the minutes indicating approval by members of the faculty of the CEP.

D. The Technology Committee

i. The membership of the Technology Committee shall consist of the committee chairperson, two representatives from the Department of Psychology and Counseling, two representatives from the School of Education, and two student representatives, one undergraduate and one graduate student currently enrolled in a CEP program. The Dean of the CEP, the chairs of the college’s two administrative units, and the CEP Instructional and Evaluation Support Specialist shall serve as ex officio members of the committee.

ii. The purpose of the TC is to review and make recommendations regarding proposals submitted by the school’s three administrative units in matters having to do with:

a. technology-related training/professional development.
b. the CEP’s educational technology-related facilities for the training of faculty, staff, and students
c. CEP hardware, software, access, and connectivity.
d. integration of technology across the CEP for the enhancement of teaching and learning.

iii. Committee recommendations involving substantive policy changes related to ii above shall be adopted only after the matter has been introduced, discussed, and entered in the minutes indicating approval by members of the faculty of the CEP.
Non-Governing Committees

College-level ad hoc committees may be established within the CEP. All such committees shall be established in consultation and with the approval of the Dean of the CEP. In general, an ad hoc committee will not continue for more than two years.

VI. Meetings of the Faculty

A. For the purpose of sharing information, general discussion, and/or decision making, the faculty of the CEP shall convene at least twice each semester during the academic year.

B. Meetings shall be called by the Dean of the CEP. Faculty meetings may also be convened by written call of one-fourth or more of the voting members of the faculty as defined in Section III.

C. Official written notification of meetings and the proposed agenda shall be prepared and distributed to faculty at least two days prior to the meeting.

D. Reports from Standing Committees may be given at meetings of the CEP faculty.

E. Proxy voting is disallowed at CEP faculty meetings.

F. The Dean of the CEP shall preside at the faculty meetings. In the absence of the Dean, a designee shall preside. Minutes of faculty meetings shall be taken and distributed to faculty by the secretary in the Dean’s Office.

VII. Departmental Governance

Each administrative unit in the CEP shall have a faculty governance document developed and adopted by faculty in the administrative unit. Administrative unit governance documents shall be consistent with the University of Texas at Tyler’s Handbook of Operating Procedures and policies established by governing committees in the CEP. Administrative unit governance documents will be reviewed through the Dean’s office and kept on file there.

VIII. Amending This Document

This document may be amended in the future by having any proposed amendment:
a. considered and recommended by a majority vote of an affected standing committee, then
b. discussed at a meeting of the CEP faculty, then
c. approved by a majority of the voting faculty by secret ballot, then
d. reviewed and approved by the Dean of the CEP.

Amendments of sections of this document that are not related to a specific standing committee may be made by completing steps b through d of this section.

The governance document for the CEP was initially ratified and made operational by the faculty of the College of Education and Psychology on January 14, 2005.

All members of the faculty of the CEP shall receive a copy of this document each time it is amended. New faculty members shall be provided copies by the Dean’s Office during the first month of their employment.

Vision 2025

A Vision for the Future of College of Education and Psychology

The College of Education and Psychology's 2025 Vision Committee, comprised of members of the faculty and staff from the School of Education, the Department of Educational Leadership and Policy Studies, and the Department of Psychology and Counseling, was given the charge of developing a vision for the future of our College. The vision for the College is based on an interdisciplinary approach using the expertise of the faculty in all three administrative units. Specifically, the Committee focused on creating goals for our College in the areas of teaching, research and scholarship, community outreach and service, and marketing and growth. The vision developed by the Committee is as follows:

Teaching

The faculty of the College of Education and Psychology recognize that teaching is our core purpose as we strive to prepare competent, caring and qualified professionals in the fields of education, psychology and counseling.

• We envision a college that continuously maintains a rigorous and relevant set of undergraduate and graduate courses.

• We envision a college that exposes our students to cutting-edge curriculum while engaging them in discourse about current critical issues in our respective fields.

• We envision offering innovative undergraduate and graduate programs that produce regionally influential and nationally competitive graduates.

• We envision working among scholars that continuously seek to stay current with both the latest research in our fields of study and best pedagogical practices to ensure the students of UT Tyler have the opportunity to engage in learning that is rigorous and relevant.

• We envision developing doctoral programs that will provide the necessary coursework, applied learning opportunities, research training, and supervision necessary to develop competent doctoral-level practitioners, scholars, and researchers in the fields of education and psychology.

• We envision utilizing innovative educational practices, both in the classroom and in opportunities for graduate and undergraduate research.

• We envision continuing to expand our hybrid and online course offerings at the undergraduate and graduate level, when appropriate, in order to appeal to a more diverse population of students.

Research
The faculty of the College of Education and Psychology is committed to advancing the knowledge base in our respective disciplines through research and scholarship.

- We envision that the faculty of the College of Education and Psychology will be leaders in their respective fields of scholarship.

- We envision our faculty will be sufficiently supported in their efforts to: a) maintain knowledge related to current and reputable research findings, b) actively search and secure external funding, and c) establish research-based collaborations between the university, the college, and other institutions and organizations such as school districts, clinics, and universities within and beyond Texas.

- We envision expanding opportunities for research as a component of students’ education so that these efforts will encourage students to learn about the process of the construction of the knowledge base in their field, and possibly encourage students to contribute to this knowledge.

Community Outreach and Service

The faculty of the College of Education and Psychology is committed to providing service to our profession and community.

- We envision nurturing existing partnerships while expanding and establishing new partnerships with individual schools, school districts, and other agencies that promote education and mental health.

- We envision fostering opportunities to integrate service with student training and faculty research endeavors, which may include providing professional development for educators and mental health professionals.

- We believe partnerships are an opportunity to serve as visible advocates for creation of the highest standards of practice in both education and mental health in our community and beyond and may include student training and faculty research endeavors.
Recruitment and Retention

The faculty of the College of Education and Psychology is committed to recruiting and retaining high ability, motivated students to our programs of study.

• We envision a College where the faculty engages students as we build a community of scholars in an effort to recruit and retain a diverse body of students.

• We envision providing exemplary educational, psychology and counseling programs which utilize progressive educational technology that allows for more effective instruction to reach a larger geographical area.

• We envision the expansion of courses to attract a population of students from more diverse backgrounds, including a greater number of students from outside the East Texas region, and those from traditionally underrepresented groups in university settings.

• We believe that the ability to secure additional financial resources will further increase our abilities to attract students from more diverse populations and make education affordable for all.

• We envision creating more robust and mutually beneficial partnerships with local school districts and mental health agencies to meet the needs of educators and mental health professionals interested in seeking a master’s degree or professional certification/licensure.

Individual Department Visions

School of Education

The School of Education core purpose is to foster the acquisition of knowledge, skills, and dispositions needed for preservice and inservice educators to become successful and ethical teachers and lifelong learners while advancing our respective disciplines in education and being stewards of the discipline.

The School envisions an instructional classroom infrastructure that promotes current and supportive technologies used to promote instructional methods well beyond the traditional lecture-based model. We envision the creation of spaces for collaboration between faculty and students, as well as spaces for laboratories of practice that allow students to learn and examine cutting-edge technology in instruction using innovative curriculum.

We envision expanding both our undergraduate and graduate program offerings in delivery modes that meet the needs of a diverse body of students. Additionally, we envision adding additional certification programs to expand our students' knowledge and skills in order to meet the needs of today's workforce. This includes expanding our programs to increase the numbers of highly qualified pre-service teachers across both elementary and secondary programs and professional educators in our graduate programs.
Department of Psychology and Counseling

The Department of Psychology and Counseling core purpose is to prepare our students to succeed in their chosen careers, bringing positive human values and dispositions, intellectual curiosity, science-based knowledge and evidence-based skills, and innovation to their work, lives and communities.

The Department envisions graduates of the undergraduate program will be prepared to pursue a diverse range of postgraduate and career options, from post-graduate studies in psychology and counseling, to other mental health-related professions (such as social work), to fields requiring expertise in designing and conducting research, to any job that requires them to be critical thinkers and skilled writers. We will continue to develop courses that engage students in cutting-edge content in the field, offer opportunities to learn about and engage with the scholarly research process, and increase their qualifications for pursuing both psychology graduate programs and careers in relevant fields.

In our graduate programs, we envision creating learning contexts that reward students who actively pursue educational experiences that promote knowledge, skills, and dispositions that will prepare them to be highly competent and skilled mental health practitioners. We envision graduates of our clinical psychology, clinical mental health counseling, and school counseling programs will become alumni who are ethical, intellectually curious, collaborative counselors and mental health practitioners who strive to competently meet the evolving needs of their clients, agencies and communities. Our graduate program will offer sequential skills development courses in which students practice basic to advanced clinical/counseling skills, integrate pertinent theories, and apply interventions under the direct supervision of faculty and qualified licensed professionals in the community.

In our Pursuit of Our Vision

As we continue to be a highly regarded College among our peers and students, we must maintain our focus on excellent teaching, cutting-edge research, service to our community, and the recruitment and retention of both faculty and students.

In an effort to intentionally work toward our vision, the College of Education and Psychology as well as each department within the College must have strategic plans to accomplish the themes set aside in this document. These major initiatives are summarized in the strategic plan for each college and department which further refine our goals, objectives, and priorities.

College of Education and Psychology

Evaluation Instrument and Process

Introduction

As a component institution of The University of Texas System, The University of Texas at Tyler is committed to maintaining a standard of excellence in all of its programs, departments and colleges. To maintain that standard, UT Tyler endeavors to employ and retain faculty who have clearly demonstrated the commitment and ability to be scholars, contributing to their respective disciplines through excellent teaching, original research/creative activity, and through service to UT Tyler, the profession and the community.

Faculty development and improvement are essential to the maintenance of a standard of excellence. An important tool in faculty development is the assessment of faculty performance, which also provides essential information for salary, reappointment, tenure and promotion decisions. Assessment is an on-going process that starts when a faculty member is employed and continues with the annual evaluation, pre-tenure review for tenure-track faculty, evaluation for promotion and tenure, and periodic evaluation of tenured faculty. Assessment is also an important mechanism for providing feedback to individuals so they can maintain high levels of performance. Faculty have a personal responsibility to maintain or improve performance and are encouraged to participate in professional development activities. (HOP 3.3.2 D 1 Annual Faculty Evaluation)

Premises

The College of Education and Psychology’s Evaluation process is based on the following premises:

1) The process should not be onerous for the faculty member or chair/director.
2) The locus of control should reside with the faculty member to present the information to substantiate his/her rating.
3) The outcome should reflect the performance of the faculty member.
4) The outcome of this professional development process should result in the faculty member achieving insight and receiving support on how he/she can improve his/her performance.

Process

1) Update Faculty 180 and run a vita for the evaluation year.
2) Complete the Teaching Addendum.
   a. Enter teaching evaluation ratings from UT Tyler website.
   b. Answer the open-ended questions on technology and teaching improvement.
3) Submit the Faculty 180 vita and Teaching Addendum to your appraiser.
TEACHING

HOP: Demonstrate a consistent pattern of effectiveness in teaching and a commitment to lifelong improvement of teaching skills. Information concerning teaching effectiveness should be collected using multiple and flexible assessment tools.

SCHOLARSHIP

HOP: Demonstrate a record of sustained and valuable substantive contributions to the body of knowledge and understanding in one’s discipline. This includes a consistent and meaningful program of research and or creative activity.

NOTE 1: A publication is defined as peer/editorially reviewed journal article, chapter, monograph, book, or juried creative activity.

NOTE 2: Due to the complexity and competitiveness of some grant competitions, faculty can request a substitution of a grant proposal in lieu of a publication with chair/director consent.

NOTE 3: One scholarly presentation can be substituted for a publication or externally funded grant in the “Exceeds Expectations” category.

Describe any use of technology, best practices and/or innovation to enhance the teaching and learning in your courses. What innovative techniques are you planning to use to advance your teaching in the future?

Using quantitative and qualitative data, (e.g. from your student evaluations, informal feedback, peer observation, etc.), reflect on the item(s) that were rated lower than other items. Describe how you will improve the teaching in your courses during the upcoming semester. Provide the specific data you are using as a catalyst for your changes.
