

Jackson Hoerth

3149 Salado Creek Dr., Tyler, TX 75703

 jacksonhoerth@gmail.com |  (903) 747-7065

Education

Ph.D., Philosophy, Temple University, 2022

Dissertation: Kant and the Dual Role of the Imagination: Content, Form, and Judgments of Beauty

Committee: Lara Ostaric (chair), Espen Hammer, Colin Chamberlain, Robert Clewis

GPA: 3.78

M.A., Philosophy, Texas A&M University, 2015

Thesis: Lebensgelassenheit: Meaning and Reflection in Kant's Third Critique and Life After Heidegger's Gelassenheit

GPA: 3.91

B.A., Philosophy, University of Texas – Pan American, 2011

GPA: 3.96 • Summa Cum Laude

Teaching Experience

Professor of Philosophy — Tyler Junior College (2019–Present)

Taught five courses per semester, including Introduction to Philosophy, Introduction to Ethics, and Introduction to Humanities.

Designed and delivered engaging instruction in face-to-face and online formats.

Developed syllabi, lectures, and assessments aligned with program outcomes.

Adjunct Professor — University of Texas at Tyler (2019–Present)

Taught Introduction to Philosophy and Introduction to Ethics both in-person and online.

Facilitated student discussion, provided timely feedback, and adapted instruction for diverse learners.

Collaborated with iDesign to create an online course geared towards nursing ethics.

Instructor of Record — Temple University (2016–2018)

Designed and taught first-year and second-year philosophy course.

Implemented active learning strategies to promote critical thinking and writing skills.

Graduate Assistant Teacher, Introduction to Logic — Texas A&M University (2013–2015)

Taught three sections per semester, administered quizzes, and graded assignments.

Areas of Specialty

Ethics • Aesthetics • History of Philosophy

Areas of Competence

Philosophy of Mind • Logic • Epistemology

Selected Publications

“Melancholy and Mania: Imagination and Mood Within a Kantian Framework.” Southwest Philosophical Studies, forthcoming.

“The Dual Role of Kant’s Imagination and Nature as Art.” Southwest Philosophical Studies, forthcoming.

“Schematism and Free Play: The Imagination’s Formal Power as a Unifying Feature in Kant’s Doctrine of the Faculties.” Con-Textos Kantianos, 2020.

Selected Presentations

Southern Society of Philosophy and Psychology, Mobile, AL, 2025

New Mexico-Texas Philosophical Society, UT Rio Grande Valley, 2024

UT Tyler Philosophy Symposium, 2022

American Society for Aesthetics, Rocky Mountain Division, 2019

Service

President, New Mexico-Texas Philosophical Society (2023–2024)

Reviewer, Journal of Aesthetic Education (2024–2025)

Ethics Bowl Judge, University of Texas – Tyler (2022, 2025)

Faculty Advisor, Founders Classical Academy (2022)

Program Committee Member, NM/TX Philosophical Society (2019, 2021–2024)

Awards & Honors

Graduate Essay Award, American Society for Aesthetics Rocky Mountain Division, 2019

Young Scholar Award, International Association of Aesthetics, 2018

Temple University Fellow, 2015-2016, 2018-2019