

ANTH 4360 Topics in Anthropology: Advanced Maya Archaeology

Fall 2023

CAS 260: Tuesday and Thursday

Instructor: Thomas H. Guderjan

Office: CAS 157

Phone: 903-566-7418

Email: tguderjan@uttyler.edu

Office Hours: Tuesday and Thursday from 12-2PM and 3:20-4:00PM. I am also available in my office anytime I am not in class or a meeting.

Course Overview: This course will focus on recent developments in Maya archaeology as typified by 2 edited volumes. Students will read a chapter before each class meeting and discuss that chapter during the class meeting. Using these materials, each student will develop a research paper for the capstone project of the course.

Student Learning Outcomes

- 1) Analyze the complex societies that preceded our own in the Americas.
- 2) Synthesize how scholarly efforts have created a growing awareness of these ancient civilizations.
- 3) Evaluate knowledge of an ancient civilization and compare it to our own.

Class: The normal week will consist of class meetings on Tuesday and Thursday which will consist of discussions of each chapter of readings which will be provided by the instructor at no costs to the student.

Grading: The course grade will be based on participation in the classroom discussion and a research paper. The weekly papers will be assigned on Fridays and due on the following Wednesday. Each student will write a 15-page research paper on a subject agreed upon in advance. Each student will give a short presentation of their research paper during the last week of class.

DATE	TASK	DETAILS	SLO	POINTS
Sept 15	Choose Topic for Research Paper	1 page discussion of student's planned topic	Become able to conceptualize a theme associated with information from the class	5
Oct 15	List of references for research paper	Students compile lists of 10 peer-reviewed references applicable to the research paper topic	(1) Students learn what peer-reviewed sources mean and (2) learn to compile literature applicable for research topic	10
Nov 15	Research Paper	15 page (double space, 12 pt.) paper with at least 10 references	Students learn to demonstrate their ability to understand what scholarly information is, (1) demonstrate their abilities to command and synthesize information and (3) demonstrate their abilities to conduct scholarly research	25
Last week of Class	Presentation	15 minutes student lead discussion on the results of their research paper	Students demonstrate their ability to understand what scholarly information is, (1) demonstrate their abilities to command and synthesize information and (3) demonstrate their abilities to conduct scholarly research	10
	10 weekly tests	5 pts each		50

GRADE SCALE: 90-100 = A; 80-89 = B; 70-79 = C; 60-69 = D; 0-59 = F

TENTATIVE SCHEDULE

- Week 1-7 Topic: Chapter reviews of The Value of Things, University of Arizona Press
- 8-14 Chapter reviews of Ancient Maya Space, University of Arizona Press
- 15 Final Project Presentations

The Purposes of research papers include:

Demonstrate your ability to understand what scholarly information is... and ... what is not.
Demonstrate your ability to command and synthesize scholarly information.
Demonstrate your ability to conduct scholarly research.

Attendance & Deadlines: You chose to spend your time and money to take this class. So, I assume you desire to spend them well. Consequently, I will not normally take attendance. Deadlines for all tests and assignments are absolute unless you have conferred with me in advance or have an excuse from the Dean or University. Otherwise, there will be no make-up exams. Written assignments must be turned in by the due date. Unexcused absences for assignment due dates will result in a grade of zero for the assignment.

Classroom distractions: Cell phones, text messages and any other contact with people outside of the classroom are considered to be distractions and will not be tolerated. Likewise, inappropriate activity inside the classroom will also not be tolerated.

PLAGARISM & CHEATING

- It is your responsibility to know and understand the university policy on cheating and plagiarism.
- If you plagiarize or cheat, you WILL receive an F for this course.
- If you plagiarize, your case WILL be referred to the Dean for further action. Penalties may include expulsion.

Make-Up Exams: You may take a make-up exam only if you have made arrangements prior to the exam to do so. Do not ask for a make-up exam if you missed the exam without prior arrangements or have reason for an official absence.

Academic Problems: Feel free to talk with me about any problems you may have with the course. It's usually best to make an appointment to me in my office rather than trying to get an answer to a question or to take care of a problem between classes. Faculty members are expected to provide information at the start of each semester on how the final grade will be determined. I am extremely conscientious about determining student grades, but if you feel that an error has been made, talk with me. If you feel that your concerns have not been addressed, talk with the department chair or the dean of the school in that order.

University Policies & Student Resources:

Here are links to the applicable university policies.

- University Policy
- Student Resources