

Marketable Skills: Kinesiology MS

Skill	General and Kinesiology-Specific Applications	How the Skill is Delivered
Verbal Communication	Learn to communicate with patients, clients, students, athletes, or the general public about health, wellness, and performance goals.	Presentation assignments in multiple courses.
Written Communication	Learn to write effectively to communicate information about health, wellness, and physical performance.	Written assignments in multiple courses.
Human Relations	Learn to interact effectively with others to promote health, wellness, and physical performance.	Group assignments and presentations in multiple courses. HECC 5395/5396 (Thesis) or HECC 5397/5398 (Internship).
Instructional Skills	Learn to effectively teach others regarding health, wellness, and physical performance.	Group assignments and presentations in multiple courses.
Computer-Based Skills	Learn to use the computer to access information, analyze data, and write reports related to health, wellness, and physical performance.	HECC 5317 and other courses.
Critical Analysis of the Literature	Learn to critically analyze the literature related to health, wellness, and physical performance.	HECC 5303, HECC 5395/5396 (Thesis) or HECC 5397/5398 (Internship).
Data Analysis and Interpretation	Learn to statistically analyze and interpret data, and to critically evaluate published data.	HECC 5317, HECC 5395/5396 (Thesis) or HECC 5397/5398 (Internship).
Knowledge of Exercise Science	Learn advanced principles related to exercise physiology, adaptations to exercise training, and biomechanics of human movement.	KINE 5313, 5315, 5335
Knowledge of Motor Skills Learning	Learn advanced principles related to the execution and acquisition of motor skills in individuals.	KINE 5307