Course Description

Seminar in experiential learning requiring a digital project for a local organization or business. Topics include, but are not limited to, public writing, writing for non-profit organization, cooperate writing, citizenship and literacy, economy and writing technology, and media and community.

Course Goals

Our class discussions and readings will examine the theory and practice underlying public, professional, and technical writing practices that occur in real-world scenarios while also considering the various rhetorical features of digitally-mediated communication practices in different organizational or institutional systems. All assignments and readings throughout the semester will help you identify an organization you would like to work with, analyze the circumstances and values of this organization, and design a custom audio podcast that can resonate with the needs and/or parties associated with this organization.

This class will require students to conduct independent research as they consider possible outlets and applications for their semester-long projects. Although there will be lectures that cover the generic conventions of popular workplace texts (such as project proposals and design documents for new programs/applications), a majority of class conversations will revolve around the research and writing you produce. The hope is that the self-directed nature of this course will encourage you to position yourself as an invested participant in the same ideas, organizations, and composing practices being analyzed and produced. This, in turn, can help you become a more active participant not only in academic circles but also in the social, cultural, and civic communities to which you belong.

Learning Outcomes:

By the end of the semester, students will be able to:

1. Understand how to critically read the values of an organization and the ways in which said values manifest themselves in the communication practices between members.

2. Examine how digital media technologies are capable of refining and evolving the values of an organization in order to better serve their constituents.
3. Know what constitutes effective communication using digital media platforms in online, public, and professional environments.
4. Craft documents that mimic real-world professional genres while also being capable of rationalizing the design decisions made while composing digitally-native projects.
5. Be capable of pragmatically deploying new media platforms in real-world scenarios.

Major Projects:

Research on Current Public Issue: students will research and analyze an on-going public issue that directly affects a local community. In doing so, students will contextualize this issue using scholarly and journalistic research sources, identify the parties that are implicated in this issue, and discuss how this issue fundamentally impacts specific professional and/or cultural communities of East Texas.

Audio Podcast: students will research, script, record, and edit an audio podcast that explores the public issue and organization that were examined in the previous two assignments. This podcast should incorporate both scholarly sources as well as interviews with individuals who are impacted by (or are responding to) a specific public issue.

Distribution of grades:

Research on Public Issue:	30%
Audio Podcast:	30%
Short Writing Assignments:	25%
Participation and Attendance	15%

Class Readings

"Public and Professional Writing" by Ann Surma

Additional supplemental readings will be posted to Canvas.

Additional real-world examples of public and community writing will be posted as PDFs to Canvas.

Participation Policy

I understand that everyone has their own processes for (and even hesitations about) participating in social scenarios; some need a lot of time to work through ideas before speaking, others like bouncing ideas off peers in order to suss out their own arguments, others enjoy listening and synthesizing different ideas discussed in class into his/her own writing. For these reasons, I will offer a variety of outlets for participation, including short in-class writing assignments, longer take-home assignments, class conversations, and opportunities to provide feedback to your peer's writing.

It is perfectly normal to be more comfortable sharing your ideas in one type of social scenario versus another, but it is imperative that you are able to discuss complex ideas across a multitude of different contexts in order to be successful in the professional world. Therefore, I will evaluate your participation across all of the outlets I mention above.

Attendance Policy

Because of the rapid pace of this course and the emphasis on in-class activities/discussions, consistent attendance is very important. Every student is allowed FOUR absences. Each additional absence will result in lowering your final grade by one full letter (i.e., a B+ will be lowered to a C+). Coming to class without the assigned readings or materials will result in being absent for the day. Being late (logging onto Zoom after I begin lecturing) twice equals one absence.

Email Policy

Email is the easiest way to contact me. However, courtesy in correspondence is important; that is, be rhetorical and think about your audience. Because email is quick and easy, people often do not take the time to formulate emails that will effectively communicate what is desired. When emailing me, please include a subject header with helpful information, an opening address, and a closing signature. This will help me know who has written me and what it is about.

Please approach online correspondence and email exchanges in this class as you would any other professional or occupational setting. This means that I will regularly check my email from 8am-6pm Monday through Friday. Please expect a response to any email you send within 48 hours of me receiving it. For example, do not expect an immediate response if you email me late at night or over the weekend.

Policy on AI and AI-Generated Work

UT Tyler is committed to exploring and using artificial intelligence (AI) tools as appropriate for the discipline and task undertaken. We encourage discussing AI tools' ethical, societal, philosophical, and disciplinary implications. All uses of AI should be acknowledged as this aligns with our commitment to honor and integrity, as noted in UT Tyler's Honor Code. Faculty and students must not use protected information, data, or copyrighted materials when using any AI tool. Additionally, users should be aware that AI tools rely on predictive models to generate content that may appear correct but is sometimes shown to be incomplete, inaccurate, taken without attribution from other sources, and/or biased. Consequently, an AI tool should not be considered a substitute for traditional approaches to research. You are ultimately responsible for the quality and content of the information you submit. Misusing AI tools that violate the guidelines specified for this course (see below) is considered a breach of academic integrity. The student will be subject to disciplinary actions as outlined in UT Tyler's Academic Integrity Policy.

AI is permitted only for specific assignments or situations, and appropriate acknowledgment is required. During some class assignments, we may leverage AI tools to support your learning, allow you to explore how AI tools can be used, and/or better understand their benefits and limitations. Learning how to use AI is an emerging skill, and we will work through the limitations of these evolving systems together. However, AI will be limited to assignments where AI is a critical component of the learning activity. I will always indicate when and where the use of AI tools for this course is appropriate.

Additional Course Policies:

Grade Computation

To compute the final course grade, the following point totals are assigned to the standard letter grades of A through F:

- A = 90-100 points
- B = 80-89 points
- C = 70-79 points
- D = 60-69 points
- F = 59 points and below

Failure to turn in a final draft of any paper will result in an F for the class without exception.

Scholastic Dishonesty

Please see UT Tyler's policy on scholastic dishonesty:

<http://www.uttyler.edu/judicialaffairs/scholasticdishonesty.php>

This class has a Zero Tolerance Policy for Scholastic Dishonesty. Any deliberate act of scholastic dishonesty will result in immediate failure of the entire course.

Attendance Policy

Students are expected to attend all class sessions. Because this class incorporates frequent small- and large-group activities, students who are absent affect not only their own learning, but that of their fellow students. Therefore, only two weeks' worth of absences (six classes) will be allowed for the semester, regardless of reason, including documented illness or emergency. Students who exceed two weeks' worth of classes will fail the course, unless they withdraw by the census date. See "Standard UT Tyler Syllabus Policies" below for information on the census date.

UT Tyler Honor Code

Every member of the UT Tyler community joins together to embrace: Honor and integrity that will not allow me to lie, cheat, or steal, nor to accept the actions of those who do.

Grade Replacement/Forgiveness and Census Date Policies

Students repeating a course for grade forgiveness (grade replacement) must file a Grade Replacement Contract with the Enrollment Services Center (ADM 230) on or before the Census Date of the semester in which the course will be repeated. (For Fall, the Census Date is Sept. 8.) Grade Replacement Contracts are available in the Enrollment Services Center or at <http://www.uttyler.edu/registrar> (Links to an external site.)Links to an external site.. Each semester's Census Date can be found on the Contract itself, on the Academic Calendar, or in the information pamphlets published each semester by the Office of the Registrar.

Failure to file a Grade Replacement Contract will result in both the original and repeated grade being used to calculate your overall grade point average. Undergraduates are eligible to exercise grade replacement for only three course repeats during their career at UT Tyler; graduates are eligible for two grade replacements. Full policy details are printed on each Grade Replacement Contract.

The Census Date is the deadline for many forms and enrollment actions of which students need to be aware. These include:

- Submitting Grade Replacement Contracts, Transient Forms, requests to withhold directory information, approvals for taking courses as Audit, Pass/Fail or Credit/No Credit.
- Receiving 100% refunds for partial withdrawals. (There is no refund for these after the Census Date)
- Schedule adjustments (section changes, adding a new class, dropping without a "W" grade)

- Being reinstated or re-enrolled in classes after being dropped for non-payment
- Completing the process for tuition exemptions or waivers through Financial Aid

State-Mandated Course Drop Policy

Texas law prohibits a student who began college for the first time in Fall 2007 or thereafter from dropping more than six courses during their entire undergraduate career. This includes courses dropped at another 2-year or 4-year Texas public college or university. For purposes of this rule, a dropped course is any course that is dropped after the census date (See Academic Calendar for the specific date).

Exceptions to the 6-drop rule may be found in the catalog. Petitions for exemptions must be submitted to the Enrollment Services Center and must be accompanied by documentation of the extenuating circumstance. Please contact the Enrollment Services Center if you have any questions.

Student Absence for University-Sponsored Events and Activities

If you intend to be absent for a university-sponsored event or activity, you (or the event sponsor) must notify the instructor at least two weeks prior to the date of the planned absence. At that time the instructor will set a date and time when make-up assignments will be completed.
