Facility Access & Studio Lab Safety and Mechanical Safety Training

Studio facility access is for enrolled students only. Students are required to use appropriate safety equipment (PPE) and practice safe operation procedures when using any hazardous equipment or materials. All students must successfully complete the lab safety training and mechanical safety training and quizzes on Canvas before after-hours access to the complex is granted. Failure to adhere to the terms of the Art Safety agreement will result in the loss studio facility access.

Personal Protective Equipment (PPE)

For your safety, you must follow all safety requirements established by the department and university. It is required that you provide your own Personal Protective Equipment for use in studio areas. This equipment includes: dust mask with at least a N95 rating and attached filter, safety glasses, ear protection, gloves, close-toed shoes, and appropriate clothing. Failure to use this equipment while working may result in the loss of studio privileges.

Materials and Chemicals

Any additional materials or chemicals not included on the course material list must be approved by the faculty member in charge of the area where the chemical (material) will be used prior to the material/chemical being brought into the studio. Students are responsible for notifying the studio technician of any new materials/chemicals the day they are brought to the studio in order to insure that the appropriate Safety Data Sheet is on file and in the SDS binder.

Labels for any new, approved chemicals brought into the art studios must include the following information when they are transferred to a new container or if the original chemical label is damaged: Name of Chemical, Date chemical was opened, and any basic hazards associated with the chemical. Labels are located in each studio and must be filled out and adhered to the container immediately.

4. Contemporary trends The student will develop an understanding of how his or her work relates to current trends in contemporary art.
5. Written analysis The student will engage in written critical analysis of their artwork.
6. Verbal analysis The student will engage in critical verbal analysis of their artwork.

Professional Communication:

When referring to any faculty member, please remember that they all have earned a high degree of respect, and should be referred to, or addressed as “Professor”, “Dr.”, “Mr.” or “Ms.” In any academic situation, using “Professor” is the safest path, until you have been invited to address your professors otherwise. While in class or public settings always err on the side of proper decorum.

Office Hours and E-mail Etiquette:

I am here to assist you in all things small metals related and want each of you to excel in this course. I will endeavor to always be available to you during my appointment hours and to provide as much guidance and support as possible outside of those hours.

The best way to contact me will be through UT Tyler e-mail. I will check my e-mail periodically throughout the day and on the weekends and will try to reply as quickly as possible. Always use formal e-mail etiquette and use your UT Tyler student e-mail address if you wish to get a response.

Attendance:

Be here and be on time. Be present both mentally and physically! Attendance is mandatory and will be taken at the beginning of each class. During the semester you are allowed 3 absences regardless of reason. Extreme circumstances such as death in the family or hospitalization for any reason (with documentation) will not be counted against you. Should you exceed three absences you will be dropped one letter grade. Each subsequent absence will drop your grade again. The class requires daily participation, so be present. Your presence is directly linked to your final grade. Always keep that in mind. Missed demonstrations and lectures will NOT be repeated. If you miss a lecture or demonstration it is your responsibility to get that information on your own. Students who anticipate being absent from class due to religious observance must inform the instructor, in writing, by the second week of class and myself or professor Hatcher will initial the request to indicate approval. Also remember that you will need to work outside of class time, at least two to three times as much as in class in order to truly create a prolific body of work. I here often, so I will know if you are or not.

Critiques:

There will be two formal critiques and several informal critiques over the course of the semester. The formal critiques will be at the midterm and at the final for the class. The informal critiques will take place as course projects are completed. Do NOT miss any day that is scheduled as a critique. All completed work and work in progress will be displayed during the critiques with the exception of the final.

Presentation of Work:

The presentation of your work promotes the serious and significant nature of your efforts. It is not enough to simply produce work; students are required to present work in the most advantageous manner possible. Consideration of presentation should begin at the inception of the work so that any challenges that arise can be addressed and improved as the work progresses. As the nature of this work is rather small, space to present work during critiques will not be an issue.

Class Participation:

The running of the small metals studio is a community endeavor, it is a learning process. As such, class participation is an important aspect of this course. You are required to be an active participant by assisting with the maintenance and cleanliness of the studio, participating in course dialog and critiques, and in the safe practices and procedures of yourself and those around you. Participation is a part of your overall grade. One more reason to be in class!

Final Critique:

At the final critique, all work must be completed; incomplete work will not be accepted or critiqued. All work must be displayed in appropriately. All students are expected to actively participate in the critique process and will be graded not only on work presented but also on participation. The Final Critique is worth 25% of your grade.

Evaluation of Body of Work Criteria:

- Completion of an ambitious body of work
- Quality of finished work
- Quantity of finished work
- Concept and design of the finished work
- Overall growth and development
- Experimentation and innovation

Grade Replacement/Forgiveness and Census Date Policies

Students repeating a course for grade forgiveness (grade replacement) must file a Grade Replacement Contract with the Enrollment Services Center (ADM 230) on or before the Census Date of the semester in which the course will be repeated. Grade Replacement Contracts are available in the Enrollment Services Center or at <http://www.uttyler.edu/registrar>. Each semester's Census Date can be found on the Contract itself, on the Academic Calendar, or in the information pamphlets published each semester by the Office of the Registrar.

Failure to file a Grade Replacement Contract will result in both the original and repeated grade being used to calculate your overall grade point average. Undergraduates are eligible to exercise grade replacement for only three course repeats during their career at UT Tyler; graduates are eligible for two grade replacements. Full policy details are printed on each Grade Replacement Contract.

The Census Date is the deadline for many forms and enrollment actions of which students need to be aware. These include:

- Submitting Grade Replacement Contracts, Transient Forms, requests to withhold directory information, approvals for taking courses as Audit, Pass/Fail or Credit/No Credit.
- Receiving 100% refunds for partial withdrawals. (There is no refund for these after the Census Date)
- Schedule adjustments (section changes, adding a new class, dropping without a "W" grade)
- Being reinstated or re-enrolled in classes after being dropped for non-payment
- Completing the process for tuition exemptions or waivers through Financial Aid

State-Mandated Course Drop Policy

Texas law prohibits a student who began college for the first time in Fall 2007 or thereafter from dropping more than six courses during their entire undergraduate career. This includes courses dropped at another 2-year or 4-year Texas public college or university. For purposes of this rule, a dropped course is any course that is dropped after the census date (See Academic Calendar for the specific date).

Exceptions to the 6-drop rule may be found in the catalog. Petitions for exemptions must be submitted to the Enrollment Services Center and must be accompanied by documentation of the extenuating circumstance. Please contact the Enrollment Services Center if you have any questions.

It is the policy of The University of Texas at Tyler to protect the confidential nature of social security numbers. The University has changed its computer programming so that all students have an identification number.
