Course Description: “Examination of the critical roles of language, and culture on the literacy development of all students, including English learners.”

Knowledge Base(s) and Rationale:
This graduate level course explores children’s literacy development with particular emphasis on cognitive, linguistic, and socio-cultural factors. Course content focuses on understanding the ways in which literacy practices are closely linked with linguistic, socio-cultural, and political circumstances. This understanding challenges autonomous models of literacy (Street, 1995) in which reading and writing are viewed in technical terms as cognitive accomplishments unrelated to any particular social or political context. Issues and questions addressed draw from theories and research that describe processes, forces, and tensions among the cognitive, linguistic, motivational, and sociocultural foundations of reading and writing development.
Course content incorporates the following standards for the preparation of reading professionals:
- International Literacy Association (ILA, 2010);
- Texas Examination of Educator Standards (TExES)
- Texas Educator Standards (TES Title 19: Chapter 149, Subchapter AA, Rule: 149.1001),
- Texas State Board for Educator Certification Standards (TSBECS, 2016)
- Texas Prekindergarten Guidelines (TPG 2015),
- International Society for Technology in Education Standards for Educators (ISTE),
- Interstate New Teacher Assessment and Support Consortium (InTASC) Standards,
- College and Career Readiness Standards (CCRS)

Student Learning Outcomes (SLOs):
Upon successful completion of the requirements of this course, teacher candidates will have opportunities to:

1. Develop an understanding of language, its acquisition and role in first and second language literacy development.
2. Develop an understanding of historical and current research, policy, and practice related to children’s literacy development.
3. Critically examine the ways in which language, culture (and society) transact with literacy in the lives of children, youth, as well as adults, both in and out of classrooms.
4. Apply the knowledge gained about language, literacy, and culture to develop a research-based orientation to literacy and its teaching in K-12 settings

COURSE EVALUATION AND REQUIREMENT DESCRIPTION

Performance Assessments

Grading is based on the total number of points accumulated by each student at the end of the semester for all evaluations including exams, assignments, and class activities.

The assignments and projects outlined below are designed to contribute in a different, and yet complementary way in achieving the stated course objectives.

1. Whole Class Discussions (10 points).
   Description: As graduate students it is critical that you read deeply and engage in a productive and collegial manner with your professional community (us) in order to grow. Through weekly assigned opportunities for discussions over readings and/or videos, podcasts, and the like, you will practice giving and receiving responses to your ideas and connections with material and to those of fellow classmates. For this, we will use the course’s Canvas Discussion Forum feature for whole class discussions.

   Main Tasks: Engage deeply with class texts; respond actively, substantively and thoughtfully, tactfully, and in a timely manner with classmates to books, articles, videos and more that are assigned within our classroom community.

   Because this is a graduate level course, expectations for active engagement and substantive contributions to class activities—with timely completion of readings and related activities—are high and critical to the teaching-learning process. Active engagement entails making sustained and substantive contributions by completing assigned readings on time, asking critical questions, collaborating with others, and exploring implications and applications of knowledge gained for your own professional work.

When responding to assigned readings or activities via discussion forums, I suggest using the following questions as a general guide for organizing your responses:

a. What are the main point(s) made or issue(s) raised in the assigned readings?
b. What are some of your own connections to the readings via your life experiences, your observations, your readings or viewings of other text/film/media?
c. What are the strengths and weaknesses (or limitations) of the main points outlined, arguments made, or solutions provided?
d. In what ways will the knowledge gained from the assigned reading(s) or activities help you enhance your role and/or work as a classroom teacher, reading specialist, or literacy coach?
e. What are you thinking about differently as a result of this/these reading(s)? What questions does it raise for you?

Evaluation: Your discussion responses will be evaluated on the level of engagement (how often and when you contribute to the discussions), the quality of the contributions made (how thoughtful and substantive your contributions are), and the professionalism you exhibit when responding to assigned discussion topics or issues (how respectful and considerate you are to discussion forum members).

2. Quizzes (10 points).
Description: You will be quizzed weekly over whole-class assigned readings and videos from the two textbooks, articles, and videos. Research shows that quizzes help to reinforce learning. Multiple choice, True-False, and/or Short Answer are among the question formats that may be used.

Main tasks: Every week, you will be quizzed on that week’s assigned, whole-class readings and viewings.

Evaluation: Each quiz question carries a point value; the grade will be available to be seen in the Canvas gradebook.

3. Individual Choice-Book (20 points)

Description: From a list of books provided to you for this purpose, you will select one and read it. As we are studying the intersections of language, literacy, and culture and how those intersections manifest in the lives of people, in general, and of children and youth, in particular, we will each read a book-length work. The stories that go with these intersections reflect the lives of actual people – a book length exploration is one important way that we, as scholars and practitioners, can really begin to understand what it means when we talk about the effects of language, literacy, and culture upon students.

Main Tasks:

Week #1, you will select your book. Upload a note to me in Canvas and identify your first and second choice.

Week #2, you will have your book and begin to read it.

Week #3, you will join a whole class, Canvas discussion board forum (Individual Choice Books-Week #3) and do an initial update on your book. This way we can learn more about all the other titles we did not select, and we can discover who else among us, if anyone, is also reading the same book. You will start a thread and briefly discuss:

- Tell us: Title, year, author, chapter titles.
- Discuss: What the book is ABOUT in an overview sense.
- COMMENT: No comments to peers required.

Week #4, you will again join a whole class, Canvas discussion board forum (Individual Choice Books-Week #4) and do another update on your book.

- In this update, you will let us know what’s going on in the narrative.
- Make connections with your text: Text to self; Text to text; Text to world
- COMMENT: No comments to peers required.

Week #5, you will again join a whole class, Canvas discussion board forum (Individual Choice Books-Week #5). By this time, you will have finished your book. In this week’s post address each of the following four questions that tie back in with the course’s learning objectives. (Aim for about 100 words PER QUESTION or 400-500 words overall.)

- How has this book contributed to your understanding of language acquisition and literacy development?
- How has this book contributed to your understanding of historical and current research, policy, and practice related to children’s literacy development?
- How has this book contributed to your ability to critically examine ways in which language, culture (and society) transact with literacy in the lives of children, youth, as well as adults, both in and out of classrooms?
- How has this book contributed to your ability to make changes to your own thinking and practice as an educator? Be specific.
- COMMENT Get around to at least THREE other people and leave very short, collegial notes for them (1-2 sentences).
Evaluation: You will be evaluated on your timely, substantive addressing of the questions, per week, outlined above.

Choose from among these books for your choice book.

(If you have located a similarly well written book about the intersections of language, literacy, and culture that you do not see here, please email me with your proposal. Include a full citation and your reasons.)

4. Literacy Research Synthesis/Literature Review (50 points)

Description: In this assignment, that spans the whole five weeks of the summer session, you will have the opportunity to investigate a question or issue and expand your knowledge of this through the completion of a literature review. You will work within a small group collaboration team to share ideas, and drafts, and give and take feedback as fellow writers and thinkers.

Main Tasks: Your task consists of the following:
(a) Select a research topic addressing a literacy and/or language issue or question that you have.
(b) Find no fewer than TEN highly relevant empirical research studies published within the last ten years, that you find in high-quality, academic journals. You can also use additional sources (i.e. book chapters, research articles, etc…) which may be older than ten years.
(c) Read your TEN research articles and create a table-synopsis for each (TEN individual tables). This exercise will help you learn to quickly grasp the article as a whole and to identify salient features of each including the findings and conclusions. You will find that you become able to better see the “skeleton” of a research article as a result.
(d) Prepare a research synthesis of the literature reviewed. The synthesis should be a distillation of what research says about the selected topic and the implications of this research on literacy practice, not just a summary or an annotated bibliography of the studies reviewed.
(e) The final research synthesis paper/literature review should be no fewer than 5 pages and no more than 10 pages long (not including the cover page, abstract page, or References page) – Times New Roman font, size 12, black, double-spaced, paginated, and formatted using APA style.

- Include:
  - Cover page formatted according to APA style
  - An abstract: 100 word limit.

- In the body of the paper:
  - Introduction to the topic, to its importance; to your interest in it and reason for reviewing: at least 250 words.
  - Thematic discussions separated by headings (done according to APA style) of the ten+ research articles and up to five other sources – how they relate to your topic and question; and whether and how the articles “talk to each other”. This is the “meat” of the paper – most of the page count should be here.
  - Implications and Conclusion. So what do you think now that you’ve discussed all this research? What did you “used to think, but now you know”? What more do you need to investigate? Is there a study that you, yourself, might like to do? This section should address each question in Implications and Conclusion bullet, and be at least 250 words.
Small Group Collaboration: Throughout the semester you will be a part of a research synthesis small group. The purpose of this group is to support each other by sharing your work in progress and providing substantive feedback to each other.

Evaluation: You will be evaluated on how you adhered to the weekly process of developing your topic and drafts; how you worked in your small group; the quality of your finished product in terms of focused discussion and meeting the tasks outlined above; and to the degree to which you adhered to APA style. You are highly encouraged to visit (in-person or virtual) with the UT-Tyler Writing Center [https://www.uttyler.edu/writingcenter/].

5. Final Exam (10 points)
The final exam will consist of a final course reflection. This is a structured reflection geared toward uncovering applications of concepts that you have learned in this course. I will provide questions centering on your own learning, learning processes, and salient take-aways for the enhancement of your practice as a teacher and reading professional. More detailed instructions to follow.

Evaluation and Grading Guidelines and Criteria: All written work should be typed (double-spaced, using a 12 pt. New Times Roman font, with one-inch margins, & page numbered), properly labeled, and carefully proofread and edited. Use APA guidelines for writing style, citations, and referencing. The criteria for determining your final grade are outlined below.

Last day to Withdraw from Course: Tuesday, June 24th

INDIVIDUAL CHOICE BOOK:
Select your book from list above. Write me a note, and tell me what book you ordered/acquired. If you’ve not yet ordered/acquired your book, tell me your first choice and second choice books.

RESEARCH SYNTHESIS:
Begin to consider THREE QUESTIONS or ideas that you might undertake in your research synthesis. Draw from your own teaching experience; or, draw from ideas you've encountered in your program here at UT-Tyler. What are your burning questions that have to do with the intersection of language, literacy, and culture?

Begin to complete a preliminary investigation of your research questions to see which question has the most relevant, substantive, and current research that will 1) help you to answer your question, and 2) help you to complete this research synthesis project.

NEXT WEEK be prepared to share with your small group collaboration team:

- your three research questions
- identify your final research question based on your preliminary investigation
- draft outline for your research synthesis (see syllabus for more details)
- preliminary findings

The specific Census Date for each term can be found online on the Academic Calendar.

Students repeating a course for grade forgiveness (grade replacement) must file a Grade Replacement Contract with the Enrollment Services Center (ADM 230) on or before the Census Date of the semester in which the course will be repeated. Grade Replacement Contracts are available in the Enrollment Services Center or at http://www.uttyler.edu/registrar. Each semester’s Census Date can be found on the Contract itself, on the Academic Calendar, or in the information pamphlets published each semester by the Office of the Registrar.

Failure to file a Grade Replacement Contract will result in both the original and repeated grade being used to calculate your overall grade point average. Undergraduates are eligible to exercise grade replacement for only three course repeats during their career at UT Tyler; graduates are eligible for two grade replacements. Full policy details are printed on each Grade Replacement
State-Mandated Course Drop Policy
Texas law prohibits a student who began college for the first time in Fall 2007 or thereafter from dropping more than six courses during their entire undergraduate career.
