D. Learning Outcomes
Upon successful completion of the requirements of this course, students will have an opportunity to:

1. Develop a working knowledge of generative theory that informs practice (praxis) related to new and emerging media literacies.
2. Develop a working knowledge of current research, policy, and practice related to new and emerging media literacies.
3. Explore critical issues pertaining to the integration of new literacies across the K-12 school curriculum.
4. Apply knowledge gained when integrating new literacies across the curriculum with the goal of enhancing students’ learning and engagement.

The assignments and projects outlined below are designed to contribute in a different, and yet complementary way in achieving the stated course objectives.

#1) E-learning discussions, readings and activities (30/30=100% grades taken incrementally).
Description: As graduate students it is critical that you read deeply and engage in a productive and collegial manner with your professional community (us) in order to grow. Through weekly assigned opportunities for asynchronous (and sometimes synchronous) discussions over readings and/or videos, podcasts, and the like, you will practice giving and receiving responses to your ideas and connections with material and to those of fellow classmates. For this, we will use the course’s Blackboard Discussion Forum feature for whole class discussions.
Main Tasks: Engage deeply with class texts; respond actively, substantively and thoughtfully, tactfully, and in a timely manner with classmates to books, articles, videos and more that are assigned within our classroom community.
Because this is a graduate level course, expectations are high for active engagement and substantive contributions to class activities—with timely completion of readings and related activities—and critical to the teaching-learning process. Active engagement entails making sustained and substantive contributions by completing assigned readings on time, asking critical questions (of the readings, of yourself, of colleagues), collaborating with others asynchronously, and exploring implications and applications of knowledge gained for your own professional work.

When responding to assigned readings or activities via discussion forums, I suggest using the following questions as a general guide for organizing your responses:

a. What are the main point(s) made or issue(s) raised in the assigned readings?
b. What are some of your own connections to the readings via your life experiences, your observations, your readings or viewings of other text/film/media?
c. What are the strengths and weaknesses (or limitations) of the main points outlined, arguments made, or solutions provided?
d. In what ways will the knowledge gained from the assigned reading(s) or activities help you enhance your role and/or work as a classroom teacher, reading specialist, or literacy coach?
e. What are you thinking about differently as a result of this/these reading(s)? What questions does it raise for you?

E-Learning activities may include (for example):
- Discussion board posts in large and/or small groups. See above.
- Week 1’s Meet and Greet: Directions in Week 1’s Module folder
- A whole class Pinterest board or other time-limited social media experiment.
- Notebook work that may entail vocabulary work and other emergent activities based on the needs of the course.
- Building your collegial network: Between weeks 5-8 (your choice) Coffee Meet (2/2=100%)—Zoom or Skype or meet in-person with one other classmate. I strongly encourage you to aim for a synchronous, or real-time meet up. However, I know this may not always be possible. Alternatively, you could email, text message, or create a Zoom recorded video for each other. Aim for a visit of about 15-30 minutes. You will have had an opportunity to get a sense of others through the Meet and Greet, the Bb Discussion Forums, and through other means to determine who might be a compatible connection. The idea is for you to start to identify colleagues with whom you may share interests and/or similar teaching contexts so that you can build your collegial network that may still available to you after you graduate from the program (your Patriots email will not last long after graduation). Think of this as “going for coffee” with someone. For example, you can talk about your action research ideas, your own contexts, and/or your own professional goals for once you complete the program.
  - Evaluation: Write me a short “letter” in the message pane of the “Coffee Meet turnin folder” in the Course Menu. Tell me who you reached out to, the date, time and mode of your meet-up, and a little bit about how it went. It’s up to you as to whether and how you may wish to exchange any other contact information. I recommend Zoom as it is a platform that the university uses. Due by the end of Week 8: Sunday 10/23/16 by 11:59pm.

Evaluation: Your asynchronous discussion (and occasionally synchronous) responses will be evaluated on the level of engagement (how often and when you contribute to the discussions), the quality of the contributions made (how thoughtful and substantive your contributions are), and the professionalism you exhibit when responding to assigned discussion topics or issues (how respectful and considerate you are to discussion forum members).

#2) Quizzes (10/10 =100%).
Description: You will be quizzed weekly over whole-class assigned readings and videos from the two textbooks, articles, and videos. Research shows that quizzes help to reinforce learning. Multiple choice, True-False, and Essay are among the question formats that will be used. Extra credit questions may be a bonus.

Main tasks: Every week, you will be quizzed on that week’s assigned, whole-class readings and viewings.

Evaluation: Each quiz question carries a point value; the grade will be available to be seen in the Bb gradebook.

#3) Individual Choice- Book (15/15=100%)

Description
From a list of books provided to you for this purpose, you will select one and read it. As the topics of new literacies and digital media are wide and because you each have divergent interests in it, we will each read a book-length work. The authors of these books go into sufficient depth, unattainable in an article, that can help you turn up the heat under some aspect integration of new literacies and/or digital media/technology into your practice.

Main Tasks
In or prior to Week #3, you will select your book. Upload a note to me in Word and identify your first and second choice.

By the beginning of Week #5, you will have your book and begin to read it.

During Week #6 POST you will join a whole class, Bb discussion board forum (Individual Choice Books-Week #6) and do an initial update on your book. This way we can learn more about all the other titles we did not select, and we can discover who else among us, if anyone, is also reading the same book. You will start a thread and briefly discuss:

• Tell us: Title, year, author, number of pages, number of chapters and names of chapters.
• Tell us: Format in which you are reading (paper/kindle own it/borrowing it) and specifically how you are taking notes (sticky notes; writing in margins – either virtually or with pen and paper/learning notebook/other)
• Then Discuss: What the book is ABOUT in an overview sense. You may draw from the back cover of the book to supplement your own thoughts about what this book is about.
  □ Aim for about 100-200 words in this “about” discussion.

➢ COMMENT Get around to at least two other people and leave very short, collegial notes for them (10-50 words). In this way, you may be able to begin to identify people who share interests with you.

During Week #8 you will again join a whole class, Bb discussion board forum (Individual Choice Books-Week #8) and do another update on your book.

• In this update, you will let us know what’s going on in the book, what it’s suggesting to you and what you are thinking about as a result of reading.

1 Benefits of testing memory: Best practices and boundary conditions.
• A kind of short chronology of what you’ve read up to now.
• Make connections with your text: Text to self; Text to text; Text to world. What are you thinking about regarding your practice?
  o Aim for about 100-200 words in this “what’s going on in your book” post.

  ➢ COMMENT Get around to at least two other people and leave very short, collegial notes for them (10-50 words). In this way, you may be able to sustain conversations with classmates about their/your books and shared interests.

_During Week #10_ you will again join a whole class, Bb discussion board forum (Individual Choice Books-Week #10).

By this time, you will have finished your book. In this week's post, address each of the following four questions that tie back in with the course’s learning objectives.

  ➢ Aim for about 100 words PER QUESTION or _500-600 words overall._

1. How has this book contributed to your understanding of language acquisition and literacy development?
2. How has this book contributed to your understanding of historical and current research, policy, and practice related to new and emerging media literacies and literacy development?
3. How has this book contributed to your ability to critically examine ways in which you can integrate new literacies across the curriculum with the goal of enhancing students’ learning and engagement?
4. How has this book contributed to your ability to explore and work on solutions to critical issues pertaining to the integration of new literacies across the K-12 school curriculum?
5. How has this book contributed to your ability to make changes to your own thinking and practice as an educator? Be specific.

  ➢ COMMENT Get around to at least two other people and leave very short, collegial notes for them (10-50 words). In this way, you may be able to sustain conversations with classmates about their/your books and shared interests.

Evaluation

You will be evaluated on your timely, substantive addressing of the questions, per week, outlined above. Each week’s post and comments are work 5/5=100% each (3 weeks x 5.0=15/15)

Please select your choice book selection from this list

_You may use another book (2010 or later) but must propose it (specifically, with an amazon link to it) to me by the end of Week 2._

4) Integrating New Media Literacies in Instruction Project (40 points or 40% of course grade).

Description
In this assignment, you will have an opportunity to apply what you have learned about new and emerging media literacies by developing a sample weeklong unit of study (assume about one hour of class per day for five days) in a language arts or a content area classroom of your choice. An example might be a unit of study focused on teaching middle level students the skills necessary, in addition to foundational literacy skills, when the goal is to understand and communicate new information on the Internet. Another example might be a unit of study aimed at using i-Pads to promote high student interest in independent reading while also supporting foundational literacy skills (e.g., phonemic awareness) among first grade students in general, or those experiencing reading difficulties.

Main Tasks
Your unit of study should be informed by relevant theories, research, and practice with respect to the integration of new and emerging media literacies across the school curriculum. In developing the unit of study, you should provide

a) a rationale for developing the unit for the target group of students in your selected classroom,
b) a list of student learning outcomes tied to the appropriate language arts or content area standards (e.g. TEKS or CCSS)
c) the overall plan for implementing the unit of study,
d) the new media literacies tools and/or materials used in the unit of study,
e) the instructional strategies used, and
f) the evaluation plan (including instruments) for formative and summative assessment of the degree to which the learning outcomes were achieved.

More details about the specific requirements for this assignment, including timeline, will be provided at the appropriate time in the semester.

Evaluation
The proposed unit of study will be evaluated on the extent to which you have addressed each area and effectively integrated new media literacies tools and practices to promote and/or strengthen students’ literacy development and/or content learning. More details about the specific requirements for this assignment will be provided at the appropriate time in the semester.

5) Narrated “e-conference” presentation to peers over your new media literacies project (5/5 = 100%)
POST
On a whole class Bb Discussion Forum, you will present your proposed unit of study by using one or more media technology tools of your choice as long as they are shared via link with the file stored elsewhere (e.g., Podcast, Wiki, narrated PPT or Prezi presentation, VoiceThread, other).

- COMMENT Get around to at least two other people and leave collegial (e.g. specific, appreciative, engaged, extending) comments for them (100-200 words).

G. Required Readings:

Two Required Textbooks to Purchase

   - ISBN-10: 1433122790

   - ISBN-10: 1945167122

Individual Choice Book (Must acquire one; Select by Week 3; Acquire for Week 5)

Note: A student of this institution is not under any obligation to purchase a textbook from a university-affiliated bookstore. The same textbook may also be available from an independent retailer, including an online retailer.

Articles & Videos (free): To complement our textbook chapters, you will read specific articles each week. In addition, you can expect videos to be assigned on a weekly basis. All these you will use as references in whole class, Bb discussions. The schedule for readings will be in the Activities Calendar.

Grade Replacement/Forgiveness and Census Date Policies
Students repeating a course for grade forgiveness (grade replacement) must file a Grade Replacement Contract with the Enrollment Services Center (ADM 230) on or before the Census Date of the semester in which the course will be repeated. (For Fall, the Census Date is January 30.) Grade Replacement Contracts are available in the Enrollment Services Center or at http://www.uttyler.edu/Registrar. Each semester’s Census Date can be found on the Contract itself, on the Academic Calendar, or in the information pamphlets published each semester by the Office of the Registrar.

Failure to file a Grade Replacement Contract will result in both the original and repeated grade being used to calculate your overall grade point average. Undergraduates are eligible to exercise grade replacement for only three course repeats during their career at UT Tyler; graduates are eligible for two grade replacements. Full policy details are printed on each Grade Replacement Contract.

The Census Date (January 30) is the deadline for many forms and enrollment actions of which students need to be aware. These include:
- Submitting Grade Replacement Contracts,Transient Forms,requests to withhold directory information, approvals for taking courses as Audit, Pass/Fail or Credit/No Credit.
- Receiving 100% refunds for partial withdrawals. (There is no refund for these after the Census Date)
- Schedule adjustments (section changes, adding a new class, dropping without a “W” grade)
- Being reinstated or re-enrolled in classes after being dropped for non-payment
- Completing the process for tuition exemptions or waivers through Financial Aid

State-Mandated Course Drop Policy
Texas law prohibits a student who began college for the first time in Fall 2007 or thereafter from dropping more than six courses during their entire undergraduate career. This includes courses dropped at another 2-year or 4-year Texas public college or university. For purposes of this rule, a dropped course is any course that is dropped after the census date (See Academic Calendar for the specific date).
Exceptions to the 6-drop rule may be found in the catalog. Petitions for exemptions must be submitted to the Enrollment Services Center and must be accompanied by documentation of the extenuating circumstance. Please contact the Enrollment Services Center if you have any questions.
