The academic year 2020–2021 is a year many of us will not soon forget. While the COVID-19 pandemic presented us with many challenges, it also provided us with opportunities to show resilience and persistence. “Adapt and overcome” became an everyday mantra for students, faculty, staff and administrators. Video conference technologies such as Zoom and Microsoft Teams facilitated classes and meetings. PPE became an acronym all of us became intimately familiar with as we sought to provide a degree of normalcy in offering selected face-to-face classes and meetings. Finally, this past year gave us an opportunity to show grace and pull together in support of colleagues and students who struggled.

Yet even in the throes of adversity the Soules College of Business faculty, staff and students worked diligently, and with amazing results. This annual report introduces the reader to the Soules College of Business faculty and staff who recently joined our team. It highlights the achievements of three of the Soules College of Business auxiliaries: the Hibbs Institute for Business and Economic Research, the Longview Small Business Development Center (SBDC), and the East Texas Entrepreneurship Center (ETEC). Faculty, staff, student and alumni honors and award recipients are recognized. Student organizations continued engaging their members in their respective academic and professional areas and conducted many of their activities virtually. Guest speakers shared their knowledge and advice, students competed, prizes were won and honors received. Of note is the creation of a new student organization, Minorities in Business.

A Message from the Dean

DR. KRIST SWIMBERGHE
Interim Dean, Chair, Associate Professor of Marketing

This annual report also highlights faculty research and scholarship in all five of the Soules College of Business departments: Accounting, Finance and Business Law, Computer Science, Human Resource Development, Management and Marketing; and Technology. While at first one would assume lower productivity during these challenging times, the Soules College of Business faculty continued their path of excellence. Faculty successfully pursued grants, published novel research in high quality outlets and continued to present their projects virtually to their peers, thus advancing their own reputation as well as the reputation of the Soules College of Business and The University of Texas at Tyler. Finally, the Soules College of Business faculty and staff welcomed a new cohort of healthcare executives to the Executive Master of Business Administration in Healthcare Management (EMBA-HCM).

I am honored to serve and lead the Soules College of Business as the interim dean. I look forward to the future, and I am excited about the opportunities that the merger of UT Tyler and the UT Health Science Center bring with it. I am confident that Soules College of Business faculty, staff and students will play an important role in moving the University of Texas at Tyler forward. I believe that our best days are yet to come!

East Texas Entrepreneurship Center (ETEC)

Open to all UT Tyler students, faculty, staff and residents in the East Texas region, ETEC helps people create companies. Our motto is “Ideate, Validate and Cultivate!” During the 2020–2021 academic year, ETEC successfully applied for and received an Economic Development Agency (EDA) CARES Act grant, which brought on board two additional staff: Mr. Dane Clarke, associate director, and Mr. Andy Alvarado, coordinator. ETEC also added Mr. Brandon Reynolds, director of competitions and mentoring. In addition, Dr. Kerri Camp and ETEC staff applied for an additional EDA (Office of Innovation and Entrepreneurship) grant. ETEC will launch three business competitions beginning with the Idea Challenge in October 2021, followed by the Business Model Competition in February 2022, and concluding with the Business Plan Competition in late spring 2022.

Dr. Marilyn Young contributed a Hibbs brief which discussed veteran entrepreneurs in East Texas. Dr. Manuel Reyes and the Hibbs Institute are working towards consolidating the relationship with Universidad Autonoma de Nuevo Leon, one of the most recognized universities in Mexico in the field of economics. Finally, Dr. Reyes was awarded an internal grant to study salaries and wage disparities among gender, race and ethnicity in East Texas.

Longview Small Business Development Center

May 1, 2021, marked the second year of operation for The UT Tyler-Longview Small Business Development Center (SBDC) led by center director Day Shelmire. In its first two years of operation, the SBDC counseled more than $30 small business clients while providing over 4,200 hours of one-on-one counseling. These efforts helped start over 60 new businesses, created over 300 new jobs and helped secure more than $22 million in small business loans and owner equity. As an SBA Resource Partner, the center’s business advisers helped small businesses apply for CARES Act loans and grant funding during the COVID-19 economic disaster. In 2020, the SBA, through the CARES Act, appropriated over $300,000 in additional funding to the SBDC for COVID-related small business recovery efforts. This enabled the director to hire three additional business advisers, open five satellite offices in its six-county service area, conduct targeted training webinars, form a recovery team of experts in the areas of bookkeeping, digital and social media marketing and government contracting and management training, and sponsor continuing education courses.

The Hibbs Institute helps businesses, regional economic development councils and local governments expand business activity in greater East Texas. Also, the Institute provides professional economic research and analysis for organizations, companies, and investors, considering locating, expanding, or investing in East Texas. One of the initiatives the Hibbs Institute successfully initiated this year was to invite several faculty fellows to contribute.

The Soules College of Business annually recognizes faculty members who have made significant and impactful contributions in the areas of teaching, research and service. This year due to the pandemic, these awards have been postponed until the fall 2021 semester.

Student Scholarships
In September 2020, the Texas Retailers Foundation added $10,000 to our existing TREF scholarship that was originally established with $25,000. As part of the September 2020 gift from TREF, they also provided $12,000 for the Category Management program for a total in 2020 of $22,000.

The Kerri and Danny Camp Marketing Scholarship is now fully funded at $15,000. The Texas Bank and Trust—Jerry Woolworth Memorial Investment Fund, was established in honor and memory of Jerry Woolworth with a $25,000 gift to the college. This fund will allow student members of the Financial Management Association (FMA) to experience analyzing stocks and investing real money, participating in funded activities of the FMA including trips to Wall Street and other financial centers, networking and educational interactions with business leaders, investing challenges, and attendance at the FMA Annual Meeting and/or the Student Leadership Conference, marketable skills of value to employers, experience working with software and databases housed in the Soules College Financial Analytics Laboratory and Trading Floor, including Eikon, Computstat, DatalStream and QuickBooks.

A total of $26,500 was awarded to 11 students through the Soules Scholars. Students who received the awards were:

- William Andrews
- Riond Brown
- Aaron Collier
- Hyatt Hines
- Kevin Hayhe
- Cullen Malone
- Ethan McCarthy
- Courtney Shubert
- Connor Worsham

Returning student scholarships were awarded for a total of $38,800. This included $30,800 at the undergraduate level and $8,000 at the graduate level.

Student Engagement Financial Management Association – Stock Market Challenge
The stock market challenge is a way for students to compete in the real-time market with use of counterfeit currency. Students are able to trade just like they would on a real platform and keep track of different holdings. It’s a great way for students to test their trading skills before entering into the “real market.” The challenge is equipped with various search tools, screens and performance markets that help students make educated decisions when choosing sound investments. The winners of the Fall 2020 Stock Market Challenge were first place: Crystal Carr; second place: Jonathan Whittinger, third place: Ben Buchanan, fourth place: Elijah Focht, and fifth place: Angel Sanchez.

Student Society of Human Resource Development
The Student Society of Human Resource Development (SSHRD) was launched this year supporting HRD students across all three degrees. The SSHRD has designed a fantastic summer speaker series. Sheron Williams, director of human resources at the City of Shreveport, Louisiana, will present “Career Transition to HRD: A Journey from Law to Leadership” Greg Duckworth, director of HR and talent acquisition at Redwood Software, will present “Mind Control for Dummies.” Stephanie Finlay, vice president of learning and development at ABM, will present “Measuring Challenge and Success in Corporate L&D Strategy.”

Beta Alpha Psi
Kyle Shambarger, a senior accounting major representing UT Tyler’s Mu Kappa chapter of Beta Alpha Psi, was a member of the winning team for the Project Run With It consulting project for Cultured Kids, Inc. at the Beta Alpha Psi Annual Meeting. Kyle is the first UT Tyler student to participate on the winning team in this annual national competition. Beta Alpha Psi is the international honor organization for financial information students and professionals and has been in existence for over 100 years. Only universities accredited by AACSB or Equ can have BAP chapters. There are now 333 chapters and over 300,000 members around the world. Kyle was also selected to serve as an alumnus representative for both the Southwest and Missouri Valley Regions for the 2021–2022 academic year. He will be representing a total of 55 chapters.

Future Business Leaders of America
The Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA-PBL) student organization hosted numerous online events during the academic year. Various executive level guest speakers engaged our student group through presentations, open forums, Q&A sessions, etc. Yazni Orostieta, chief executive officer at WorkHub, is a UT Tyler alumnus who presented about Entrepreneurship and Networking. Roy Martinez, president of Swan Transportation Service, also a UT Tyler alumus, engaged our students on the topic of Dealing with Extreme and Unexpected Change. Bryan Pannaghi, chief financial officer at CHRISTUS Highland Medical Center, delivered a dynamic presentation on Finance in Business -- A Healthcare Executive’s Perspective.

Student Success
Bell Textron, Inc. Internships and Career Opportunities
Kerrie Anne Ambort-Clark worked with Bell Textron, Inc. executives, an American aerospace manufacturer headquartered in Fort Worth, to connect college leadership and undergraduate and graduate students to advance student opportunities in the Soules College of Business. A special promotional video was adapted for our student population and Bell Textron, Inc. executives came to campus to host the networking event, engaging Soules College of Business accounting and finance majors for internships and career opportunities.

Women in Computing: Female Undergraduate Success Initiative
As an initiative to further sustain retention rates among female computing majors and contribute towards our partnership in the Academic Alliance of the National Center for Women & Information Technology, the Department of Computer Science continued its Women in Computing student success initiative. A success coach was employed to focus on female computing majors at all levels in their undergraduate studies. Engagement between students and the success coach were conducted via Zoom beyond the normal class day schedule. During these sessions activities included programming assignment assistance, test preparation, post-test reviews and other focused content-related topics.

Human Resources Development PhD Student Advisor Team
The PhD Student Advisor Team was launched this year to support the unique needs of HRD PhD students. Among its many initiatives including mentoring and research needs, the group raised $3,500 in crowd funding support for providing more than 15 HRD PhD students to attend the virtual Academy of Human Resource Development conference. The HRD department will hold its first writing retreat to support HRD PhD students, candidates and alumni. The retreat covers a 48-hour time of writing along with fun activities like axe throwing.

Soules Ambassadors
The Soules Ambassadors participated in bi-weekly meetings with Dave Anderson, the author of Becoming a Leader of Character. Six principles discussed were courage, humility, integrity, selflessness, duty and purpose. Each student received a copy of Mr. Anderson’s book along with access to his online, self-paced videos and exercises. The Soules Ambassadors held a forum for students in the Soules College of Business. This event was held face-to-face as well as through Zoom. Individuals in attendance were able to ask questions of college faculty and address their comments and concerns of several subjects.

American Marketing Association
The American Marketing Association at UT Tyler hosted nine business professionals to help provide career and enhance professional development this year for UT Tyler students. Guests included leaders from Brookshire’s, Tran, the Tyler Hispanic Business Alliance and more. New leadership teams both in faculty and students are poised to lead the chapter into the future.
Community Engagement

Minorities in Business

Minorities in Business was officially established in fall 2020 to provide leadership opportunities to minority students majoring in business, to cultivate a supportive community for minorities and to promote the various business professions. MIB invited various minority speakers to share their journey and provide advice to our members. These speakers included WI Pugh, CPA, president, Mentoring Brother 2 Brother; Patrice Withers-Stevens, First United Bank; Nancy Rangel, president of Tyler Hispanic Business Alliance; and Dimeta Smith, owner of Dimeta Smith, CPA, LLC. In March 2021, MIB partnered with the Alpha Psi to host local high school students interested in business professions. The day was memorable as our members shared valuable advice to students from Tyler Legacy, Tyler High and Early College high schools and concluded with lunch in the UT Tyler Met and a tour of campus.

Research and Scholarship

Accounting, Finance and Business Law Department

Computer Science

During the 2020–2021 academic year, the Department of Computer Science faculty published seven journal articles, three conference proceedings (and associated presentations), one journal reviewer and one presentation. McWhorter and Del Carlo received an internal grant to assist with the development of a new leadership program. In total, the four awarded grants exceeded $60,000 in grant funding.

Management and Marketing Department

The Management and Marketing department was productive during this challenging year. Several faculty saw the challenges that the COVID pandemic presented as a unique opportunity. This was exemplified by Dr. Cadia’s co-authored publication in the Journal of Applied Psychology and Dr. Gopalakrishna-Remani’s recording and publishing of a series of interviews with local civic and business leaders discussing servant leadership on YouTube. Journal outlets in which faculty published include the Journal of Business Research, the Journal of Consumer Marketing, the Journal of Organizational Behavior and more. Several faculty including Dr. Morgan and Dr. Weidler received internal grants. In addition, several management colleagues such as Dr. Young, Dr. Cather and Dr. Al-Shammar had papers accepted at the Academy of Management annual conference and will be presenting them virtually.

Technology

The Department of Technology’s faculty published two books, two papers and made three refereed national conference presentations this academic year. Dr. Ali was awarded an internal grant to assist with an external grant totaling over $100,000 in micro- and nano-particle toxicity. Dr. Miller earned two more robotics certifications, so he can now certify students in programming and robotics. Dr. Nimon and HRD PhD student Katie Smith received an internal grant to assist with the development of a new leadership program. In total, the four awarded grants exceeded $60,000 in grant funding.

Executive MBA Healthcare Management Program (EMBA-HCM)

In fall 2020, the Executive MBA Healthcare Management 2019 Cohort graduated. During the course of the program and upon graduation, a majority of these new EMBA-HCM alumni earned promotions from senior project manager, program director, to senior analyst, chief of staff and beyond.

In spring 2021, the EMBA-HCM program welcomed our third cohort of 20 highly skilled healthcare professionals from across the state of Texas. This impressive group of professionals hold executive titles ranging from medical director, program director and physician to senior business development director.

Through executive healthcare education initiatives in the Soles’ College of Business, we are proud to play a role in educating the next generation of executive healthcare leadership.
